Mr. Epr is of opinion that if the laundries are judiciously regulated and the washermen prohibited from sleeping on their ironing tables and their customers' clothing, they will soon see the advantage of the cheap and good buildings erected by the Government at Wanchai. That would be a highly satisfactory result, but the first thing to be done is to introduce the necessary regulations for the control of the laundries in the city, and it is with the best English Machinery, embodying to be hoped there may be no unnecessary delay in the matter. The Board resolved that the Colonial Secretary's attention should be called to the report sent in two years ago the atmost Care and Chanliness expressed in and that he should be asked what steps have been taken to carry out the recommendations of the Board as to washhouses. The answer most be that no steps have been taken as yet, but the question will be a reminder that something should be done. If the Government decides to adopt the recommendations it will then be possible for the Board proceed to frame by-laws under sub-section 23 of section 13 of the Public Health Ordin ance, which authorises the Board to make by-laws for," the regulation of public baths, · laundries, and washlouses." We are still t long war off public baths, but there is no reason why the colony should not have clean and wholesome laundries.

In the improvement effected in the methods of fire extinction during the dozen years that Mr. Wodenouse was in charge of the Brigado the increased water supply takes a prominent place. Formerly, pumping from the harbour had to be relied upon as the main source of supply for use at fires; now that source is looked upon as subsidiary to the service from the mains. except in periods of drought, and with the recent addition to the capacity of the Tytam reservoir it may be hoped that even in unusually prolonged droughts such as have been experienced during the last two or three years it will be found possible to maintain constant pressure in the mains. IMPERIAL QUARTO. INGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Diotionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of latey ears been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance | Sarawak of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are above here given in extense. Each and every word is e 25th fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle, hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the sies of body thereby effecting a vast economy of space, schieving a clearness not previously British attained, and dispensing with those vast margins French and vacant spaces which have heretofore characs
